

A new season for the Wex

This summer, the Wexner Center for the Arts returns to a full schedule of in-person programming and extends greater access to all with free gallery admission and discounted parking.

The 2022–23 season showcases the interdisciplinary collaborations and connections that only the Wex can offer—with contemporary visual art, film, dance, music, theater, talks, and wellness programs under one roof at the heart of a major research university.

And our work isn't confined to the center's stages, screens, and galleries. Every day our team cultivates free education programs and resilience workshops across our communities—and online—while supporting new work by international artists that travels the globe.

Watch wexarts.org for details on these upcoming programs.
